2013 ANDERSON VALLEY PINOT NOIR

WINEMAKER'S NOTES

Our 2013 Anderson Valley Pinot Noir is a full-bodied wine in which the ripe berry character of the Ferrington Vineyard is beautifully complemented by the purity of fruit from our estate owned Monument Tree Vineyard. This wine has a red-rose color and a nose of black cherry, potpourri and brown sugar. It has a fruit-sweet attack, excellent acid balance and flavors of strawberries, brown sugar and laurel on the palate. The wine finishes with a hint of tannin and a lingering taste of licorice.

NOTES FROM THE VINEYARD

Although the 2013 California growing season will be remembered as extremely dry, it began with a typical, cool, wet spring in Anderson Valley which persisted until mid-May. From that point in the season through harvest, the weather was unusually dry, warm and fog-free. These conditions intensified the berry character in these two renowned Anderson Valley Vineyards that bracket this cool coastal appellation.
